

The Future of Fellowship By Paige Phillips & Morgan Savage

Corona Del Mar Community Church
Corona Del Mar, CA

Overview: Paige and Morgan saw that their small church no longer had anyone who could move the heavy tables and chairs from one level to the next to set up for their fellowship time on Sunday mornings. They took on the challenge of acquiring lightweight alternatives, got creative on the funding, and brought some fresh energy to their Church family.

In Reflection:

“An unexpected positive that has been gained from this project is that there is now a special task force at my church that has been formed to finish our project once we leave for college. This group has members that are excited and that want to see change in our church. ” - Paige

More Details: Morgan and Paige took on the task of setting up tables and chairs, which the Church was having to pay someone to do. They donated the money back to the Church to pay for the tables and chairs. Along the way, they learned how long some things can take in the Church and how important their voices could be if they were willing to lead. Both Paige and Morgan found greater confidence in public speaking and renewed their commitment to the relationships that make their church home so special.

“We were skeptical about this because our church is an older church that doesn't like change. However, my church created a new committee, dedicated to our project. They are all in. They changed
